Story Lines is an opportunity for a school to bond through stories and shared experiences. Story Lines uses children's books and stories to help draw lines and connections within ourselves and with those around us. Using books allows us to expand our perspective and understanding and to imagine a world where we all belong. In this training you will be coached through how to select a book that best fits your school's needs, as well as how using this practice builds autonomy and creates a sense of belonging through inclusion, all while integrating literacy. You will have opportunities to connect with other schools to share ideas, and you will leave with all of the pieces you need to implement this program in your school. Additionally, if you decide you want more resources or support from Story Lines, that will be available to you at a discount as well.
